Roanoke Logperch

Our Kiwanis Club of Roanoke to the rescue!!! We are helping to save the endangered Roanoke Logperch whose Roanoke River habitat can support this cute darter fish only if we do a better job protecting water quality in our community! WE HAVE PLANS! The Kiwanis Nature Park features a Wildflower Pollinator Garden designed to attract our friends, the pollinators, but will also improve the quality of Horton's Branch that flows into the Roanoke River. We sponsor at least 4 watershed clean ups - and many of our club members and partner organizations have grabbed their grabbers, donned safety vests and helped to remove the harmful litter.

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS: August 5th at 9 am we will again tackle the debris/litter around Horton's Branch. We will also sponsor a WEED OUT for the garden on the day of the CLEAN UP. We need your help! So does the Roanoke Logperch.

Committee is producing a children's book about this lively little critter called "Larry, the Logperch." It is a delightful page turner written by Melissa Rooney and illustrated by Jabe Gabrielle. Our goal is to get Roanokers to fall in love with their famous little fish (whose scientific name is often shortened to "P Rex" - it couldn't be more different from T-Rex, fun to have a name that rhymes with its non-surviving antithesis!).

Our Kiwanis Nature Park Committee has SO MANY opportunities to act on your concern about climate change, environmental sustainability and the quality of life in Roanoke, especially for our neighbors in NW Roanoke. We will lead youth in painting "do not litter" messages on storm drains, host workshops on the Logperch and inspire children to help us illustrate our book, take youth on nature walks using our Nature Journaling backpacks. Don Witt is leading the way to design and build an amphitheater to turn our Nature Park into an outdoor classroom and performance venue. Let us know of your interests - join our Garden Brigade, our Clean Up Crew, our Wonderful Roanoke Area Planet Protector (WRAPP) educators, our tree huggers subcommittee.

Below: The Kiwanis Nature Park is beginning to look like a park! Thanks to an Eagle Scout volunteer - Luke Birdelbaugh (spelling check with Don Witt)) discovered by Don Witt in need of a project, we now have installed 2 benches and a picnic table! Have a look at photo taken by Steve McGraw.

Notes from John

Jane Chichester

Fellow Kiwanians and Friends:

Bonnie and I visited Reggie at South Roanoke Nursing Home for about an hour last Thursday afternoon. As always, Reggie was in great spirits. He and Ann Marie are very positive that he's switched from physical therapy at South Roanoke Nursing to Carilion's ION group (Institute for Orthopedics and Neurosciences) which is in the former Ukrops building on Franklin Road. Apparently in his one previous visit there they had him stepping up a step which hadn't ever happened previously.

In answer to my question, Reggie said he'd love to have more visits from Kiwanians. Because his new physical therapy sessions will be mainly in the afternoons (but not Wednesdays), Ann Marie suggested visits on Wednesday afternoons after Kiwanis or on Saturdays or Sundays (any time).

Larry Kufel's Autobiography

I hail from a small village in Western NY named Depew, which is about 12 miles east of the City of Buffalo. My Dad was a residential plumber, who worked for a company called Barney Miller! Just like the show name years ago. My Mom was a homemaker for their 7 children. They were great parents, but it was difficult to keep track of her children at all times. For example, my mother made it a point to create a scrap book for each of her kids. When I opened the cover and read the first page of my scrap book, which included a picture of me as a baby, right under the picture she wrote the following: "Then there was 5!" I looked at my mother with a puzzled face and said, MOM, I was # 4!! Don't you remember!! LOL True story.

I attended a Catholic school for both elementary and high school and wore a tie for all 12 years of education. And boy were the Salvatorian fathers tough disciplinarians in high school. No long hair allowed and if your hair hung lower than the length of the teeth on a key they stopped us and cut the hair right there. If they thought our pants were too tight they'd drop an ice cold golf ball down our pants and if it didn't drop out of the bottom of the pants, we'd have to go home and change them. Detention was also tough- the priest would draw a little circle on the black board just high enough so we'd have to stand on our tippy toes and put our nose in the circle and stay that way for a period of time. We learned to keep on the straight and narrow in a hurry!!!

In high school, my passion was basketball which I was decent at and I ended up playing some basketball at a business college called Bryant & Stratton located in the city of Buffalo under an athletic scholarship. But, since it was only accredited to 2 four year colleges in Florida and Indiana, I transferred to a community college and completed my 2 years of study in Business Administration/Accounting. During this time we were in the midst of the Vietnam war and we were under the military draft. So, I was accepted at the University of Buffalo and my draft lottery number was 131. In college, for most of you my age, you can remember you're classified as 2S college deferment. What I didn't realize is the summer after I completed my first two years at the community college and before I entered UB in the fall, I was drafted into the Army! Talk about a shocker. They reclassified me 1A draft status for those two months in between. But, it ended up not being so bad.

After training at Fort Dix, New Jersey, and an 11 week jungle warfare infantry training at Fort Puke Louisiana, we received orders for Vietnam. We all went out and got really drunk!! Our lives were doomed!!! But, 2 days later the major assembled the battalion about 4:30 in the morning and the Major came out yelling at us with no off color words left out!! “I have sent 7 battalions to Vietnam and now you pansies have been diverted to Germany!!” Well we broke rank and cheered really loud, which really set him off and we marched and marched and marched. But, we didn’t care. I ended up in the 7 th Army, Berlin Brigade in Berlin, Germany which ended up being a pretty good gig!!

Took advantage of the GI bill when I got home and obtained my University of Buffalo education. I started dating my future bride, Barbara Costello, during my time at the community college, who happened to be a very close friend of mine all through high school and we graduated together. I was fortunate enough to have a wonderful lady who waited for me to return from my military obligation. We were engaged one month after I returned in the spring of 1972 and were married by end of that year.

I started working in the corporate end of a grocery wholesaler named the Peter J. Schmitt co., off and on since I was in my early years of college in the accounting department and when I got out of the army I returned to that same company as a full time accountant and reach the level of retail controller. While there our 1 st child was born, a son we named Laurence. I left PJS to take a finance position at a cross town competitor called Tops Markets, Inc. a big food retail and wholesaler who gave PJS a run for their money. I worked there for the next 22 years and attained the position of Vice President/Retail Controller. Tops was sold to a Dutch company in the late 90’s, who owned multiple US grocery chains up and down the East Coast.

Our 2nd, 3rd, and 4th children were born during this time period. Knowing I’d have to relocate to an area I didn’t like with the new company, I accepted a Finance Directors position at a national food wholesaler named The Fleming Company, as their Controller for their company owned retail grocery stores. My first duties for Fleming placed me in Minneapolis, MN running their Rainbow Foods division in Minnesota and their Sentry Foods division in Wisconsin.

Then one late evening while I was in my Minneapolis office and it was 30 degrees below zero, I get a call from Larry Castellani, my former CEO at Tops Markets. He goes on to ask where am I and what am I doing? After I tell him, he goes on to tell me he is the new CEO of Advance Auto Parts headquartered in Roanoke and he needs me here but I had to pass the interviews with the President and CFO. Well since my next gig with Fleming was taking me to Oklahoma City I jumped at his offer. When I stepped off the plane in Roanoke and looked around. I said to myself this looks like a really nice place to live. You could feel the warmth!!

Well guess what? I got the job!!! I arrived first in Roanoke in July 2000 to start my new position as Director of financial planning and analysis. After a bit of convincing my wife Barbara that we really are moving permanently to Roanoke, she arrived a few weeks later with our two youngest. Our daughters Sarah and Kimberly who were at that time 17 and 9.
